

The Power of the Match

Demand for hands-on environmental education is surging. Every year, students arrive on our campus ready to trade textbooks for real-world field work—applying critical conservation skills in the forests, waters, and soils of northern Wisconsin. But meeting this demand requires two things: a campus equipped for immersive learning and financial access for every student who wants to be here.

Thanks to a generous challenge match from multiple Trees For Tomorrow (TFT) legacy donors, your investment carries twice the power. Every dollar you donate to the TFT4All Annual Campaign will be matched dollar-for-dollar, immediately doubling your gift to strengthen campus capacity and clear financial barriers for visiting schools.

Survival skills in action! Multi-high school workshop participants learning hands-on field techniques and outdoor readiness.

FEATURED ALUMNUS TESTIMONIAL

"During our 4-day period, we studied many essential conservation skills. Applying skills to the real world is where Trees For Tomorrow strays to uniqueness. Unlike other camps or schools, we were able to apply our hands-on skills, taking our level of understanding even higher. As a student, I personally believe that this experience will open up the minds of many other students to the world of environmental science. These donations made it possible for students like me to explore not only our state, but possible careers to pursue."
